Father of Star Jockey Wins First and Second Money in Rose Bud Stake.

TRACK WAS TREACHEROUS.

Mag Nolin and Kickshaw Were Winning Good Things, While Old Stone Was Day's Disappointment.

HOT SPRINGS. New Orleans, Jan. 25.—Bertha E. McGinnis, born March 25, 1881, daughter of Phillips, the jockey, and second in the Rosebud Stake, the new feature for four-year-olds of the Crescent City Jockey Club season. Captain S. St. Remy's St. Radix filly, Hesitancy, was third, and the Morris and Wadell pair, Verdon and Proteus, of whom most was expected, finished far outside of the money.

There were large crowds for the race, the race was a mere scrabble at three and one-half furlongs, on a treacherous track, with a narrow path of good going on the outside. The Kickshaw victory was not an easy one, Jim McNamee was pulled out in near proximity to the rock by the place, and Inspector Gilt had an engagement with both of them. In fact, the next four horses back of the first and second were all tangled up, with Proteus passing the last of the Morris-Wadell pair.

Jack McNamee lived up to his place running by breaking off in front, but he stumbled shortly after the start and tossed Nolin over his head. The jockey, however, was not unharmed, and suffered a cut in the nose, and it was worth $100 in the winner's purse.
